

From Under the Bridge

The Life of a Rescue Volunteer and More

Haelan 951: Amazing Healing Liquid for Animals/People

Posted on September 7, 2012 | By J.D. Ward

•
•

You really will want to read this entire story—and pass it on to/share with all of your friends, relatives and contacts—animal lovers or not—even if you “just” look at the photos and read the captions, you’ll get the message. (Be sure to, at the very least, read the quote (maybe click on the article link, too) that I labeled “SIGNIFICANT” from a reputable study on cancer—and it was not provided by Haelan...)

It is absolutely amazing what the Haelan 951 did—along with a few other helpers along the way. Do your research on the web about “Haelan 951 and Cancer” and other illnesses, then call Haelan. If you or one or more of your animals have an illness or disease, and you need more info, ask a lot of questions. I did, and every time, I got more and more help. (I remember, when I first started with Kasey’s tumor, calling Joe/Haelan when I was at Costco eating pizza! I thought of a question—and he came right to the phone!)

You do need time for it to work—Haelan suggests that people drink a full bottle (8 oz) for at least 60 to 100 days—but this is a weight-based dose, so check with them for an exact amount based on your diagnosis (or your animal’s), weight, age and condition—and don’t wait!

Haelan 951 (pronounced Heel-an) has helped many animals at the Rescue Ranch (and many others all over the world)—including my sweet, gentle Kasey, who still looks forward to taking it every other day, nearly a year later.

If we get busy and forget, he gets lethargic and acts like the twelve year old “old man” that he is. After just one or two doses of Haelan 951, he is barking up a storm, chasing birds and acting like a “kid” again—within less than 24 hours.

This is what a case of Haelan 951 looks like—it is shipped in a styrofoam, fully lined box and does not have to be refrigerated—until a bottle is opened.

I had never heard of Haelan 951 until about a year ago. A friend of a friend, Patrick Bryan, was looking for someone to give a case of Haelan 951 to as a blessing—and thankfully, they thought of the Rescue Ranch.

I had just had a major accident, which caused a traumatic brain injury (that is inoperable) and which caused many herniated disks and other injuries as well. I was willing to try it—after all, there was/is nothing that the doctors could do to help me get better other than pain management and possibly some therapies—and so, on a wing and a prayer, Haelan became my “best friend” until we began to run out.

About Haelan 951

from www.ThrivingHealthAndWellness.com

“In 1989, Lesly Todesco, and her husband Joe, founded Haelan after witnessing a fermented soy product worked wonders for a close friend. Since then, years of effort have gone into perfecting the handling, preparation, and fermentation processes for our product. Not surprisingly, Haelan soy beverage has grown in notoriety into an international phenomenon, with the majority of sales coming from the competitive European market.

(I just have to add: “Until now...”)

During the first hours he had the Haelan soaked onto sterile gauze pads and then pressed and wrapped around the tumor each day, Kasey only had to wear an “e-collar” for a few hours a day—to keep him from taking off the bandages with his feet. Once he got used to them (and forgot that they were there), I took off the e-collar (and washed it every day.) The Haelan never once made him “hurt.”

(This is the new type of collar, send in by an RR angel—instead of the old big, plastic—annoying—collars that vets use after surgery. This is a soft, inner-tube/like ring that he would rest on to nap, like having a pillow around his neck.

Our History

After learning more about the benefits of soy generally, and the benefits of the product specifically that was being made in China, Lesly and Joe decided that the product needed to be available in the United States. They established Haelan Products, Incorporated and Joe assumed the role of President. Since that time, Haelan Products, Inc. has become a leader in the field of nutrition.

Haelan 951 is in fact a third generation product. The first generation product was developed by a nutritionist working in hospitals in China. Her idea was to provide proper nutrition with a harmonious blend of enzymes, amino acids, vegetable proteins, nutrients and micronutrients. (Of course, it is now understood that the important dietary components of soy also include isoflavones, protease inhibitors, saponins, phytosterols and inositol hexaphosphate compounds.)

In the case of Haelan, this also includes the Bowman Birk Inhibitor (BBI).”

My Note: This is SIGNIFICANT: According to the U.S. National Library of Medicine/ National Institutes for Health, the Bowman Birk Inhibitor (BBI) and the BBIC (Bowman Birk Concentrate), “Both BBI and BBIC prevent and suppress malignant transformation in vitro and carcinogenesis in vivo without toxicity.” To read more, go to: <http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/9848508>

Back to Haelan:

“These benefits are the end product of manufacturing quality improvements. Improvements include the selection of soybeans based on species, maturity and growing environment. They also include our patented fermentation process, which preserves and protects dietary nutrients and renders them easily absorbed, assimilated and metabolized...

This is what Kasey’s tumor looked like after a few weeks of taking Haelan 951 orally twice a day AND keeping it on the tumor for a few hours each day. The Haelan began to just dissolve holes into the tumor! You can see the Haelan liquid all around and even in–the tumor!

As we went along, the top of the tumor–the outer covering came off, exposing the inside of it.

(This process was totally painless for Kasey–just annoying.)

When this first developed, we went to see several vets. They all wanted to operate instead of trying to remove the tumor the “natural” way. No one but Joe at Haelan really believed that this could be done. Surgery was too risky–Kasey was twelve, the tumor was huge and the incision would be, too. I gave the decision up to God and decided to try Haelan–and if it didn’t work, we could always try surgery...

Every time I removed the bandages, some of the tumor would come off on them, too. (I always wore sterile gloves just to make sure that there was no risk of infection.) The white in the photos is the leftover on the days that I alternated Haelan with the poultice I mixed up. It was a creamy white mixture.

Kasey was really annoyed by this giant thing growing on his head–so to speed up its “destruction,” I alternated the Haelan with an “old medicine” poultice every other day–made from other natural ingredients. It took me a few weeks to figure out the correct “recipe” –since I only had the ingredients list–but once I did, the tumor began just falling apart!

The tumor got flatter as time went on–and the area had to be carefully cleaned to remove all of the “gunk” in Kasey’s fur, before I rebandaged it. Cancer gives off a lot of exudate–smelly goo that has to be kept washed off and the area very clean to avoid infection. (You can see his fur beginning to be “dyed” red by the poultice—it was only temporary.)

Gentle Kasey was so patient, letting me take all kinds of photos of his boo boo to share with you!

Why Haelan Soy Products?

“Even among beans, soy beans are superior because they provide all of the elements required to be classified as a “complete protein.” They also contain isoflavones – such as genistein and daidzein – as well as other phytonutrients that benefit human health. These qualities make soy products a particularly healthy meat-free option. But while soy is superior among beans – our (Haelan’s) beans are superior among other soy beans. This starts at the very beginning of production.

Genetic engineering and a variety of growing conditions mean that there is a wide range in the quality in soy products. Our bean species are selected based on maximum nutrition. Geographical area and soil quality are also carefully selected, and our beans are harvested at the most nutritious time in their growth cycle. Once harvested, our soybeans become Haelan 951, through a patented fermentation process, that takes place under carefully controlled conditions. These processes set Haelan 951 apart from all other soy beverages, and the differences are seen in both the protein and phytonutrients provided by our product.

The measurement of protein quality is called the Protein Digestibility Corrected Amino Acid Score (PDCAAS), and the score for Haelan 951 is 1.0 – which is equal to meat and dairy. Our fermentation process produces single cell fermentation proteins and their metabolites, which makes them readily digested. The processes also protect and enhance the isoflavones, phytosterols, saponins, inositol hexaphosphate, and other nutrients contained in Haelan 951 at the highest levels on the market.

In fact, spectrographic analysis conducted by Iowa State University using Haelan 951, and other leading soy products, shows that Haelan 951 provides far higher levels of important ingredients, including 14 times more genistein, three times more daizein and three times more glycitin. Our product also contains an exceptionally high rate of the Bowman Birk protease inhibitor compound (BBI).*

Some studies indicate that the nutritional benefits of soy are most readily obtained in liquid products. When compared to a popular leading soy milk beverage (Silk) Haelan 951 is clearly superior.

Again, our fermentation process means that soy nutrients are not only more abundant but are more readily available to the body – even when compared to other liquid products. Further, each one cup serving of Silk contains 100 calories, 4 grams of fat (including half a gram of saturated fat), 120 mg. of sodium, 8 grams of carbohydrates and 7 grams of protein. By contrast, as a soy protein, Haelan 951 is comparable for protein but has 15 calories, no fats, 10 milligrams of sodium and no carbohydrates. (My note: Each bottle is 8 oz.)

I won't deny that the process of getting rid of this tumor got pretty messy—and I am thankful that I have the time to devote to help and heal this special needs animals. But, as I've said before, we can't do it all alone...

(We sure could use some good quality Pet food and treat companies needed ASAP as sponsors! Hill's a/d tepped up to help save Kasey and generously sent help—which just amazed me. When he didn't want to eat—for about six months—we fed him Hill's a/d, a food almost every cat or dog will gobble up!

The “Dingo Company,” as we call them, or Eight-In-One products, was so kind to send bottles of their new waterless shampoo, Perfect Coat, in spray bottles to help me to help Kasey Dingo Bones _ to reward him for cooperating. This allowed me to keep up with the cleaning process, even when I was so tired, and it dissolved the tumor exudate really well. (I was really impressed with this shampoo. They were also such an incredible blessing to the RR, I will be forever grateful.)

Kasey always got a treat after I finished his bandages. It gave him something to look forward to.

At one point the entire skin covering of the tumor dissolved, and Kasey was left with this giant, raw meat-like looking “mushroom.” It was like a giant mushroom cap on a thick stalk growing out of his head. The cap started to dissolve by “chipping off” and then the stalk began to fall off little by little.

From Haelan, “All of the animals, if they used or took Haelan, we have helped. Most all of them were farm animals... pigs, ducks, milking cows, horses, goats, NO CHICKENS that I know of though...

We did help a lady with her bird. Can't remember what it was or what was wrong, but I remember that we were successful.” I was told that lots of people, who have cats who get tongue cancer, use Haelan successfully.

“But mostly we have helped dogs and cats. Most of the people that have used this product, say the same thing you say, “Thank you for curing my dog/ cat etc.”, which we really appreciate hearing.”

He continued, “As you know, this product is expensive, but we have never have had one person return it because it didn't do what we said it could do. To date, I do not know of ONE customer that hasn't appreciated what we did for their animal.”

As promised, after his bandages were changed, Kasey got to pick his treat—usually he picked a Greenie or a Dingo Bone with meat in the middle!

Kasey would then get his measured out dose of Haalen before I put on his e-collar. Some days, he drank it right out of the bowl, other days, I had to syringe it. I never had to add anything to it, like Stevia, for him to cooperate but always knew I had that option.

Back to Haelan's site...

“With Haelan, we have benefited from valuable input from practitioners, scientists, educators, distributors and consumers. Individuals from every walk of life have been committed to moving forward, the wider distribution of this product, and fuller understanding of its benefits.

Haelan and Health

For many years, researchers have documented the many health benefits of soy. By 1999, enough data existed to warrant an FDA ruling that soy products could contain a health claim on labels, stating that, “a daily diet containing 25 grams of soy protein, also low in saturated fat and cholesterol, may reduce the risk of heart disease.”

In order to qualify for the FDA health claim, a food must provide at least 6.25 grams of soy protein per serving and must be low in fat, cholesterol, and sodium. When compared to the other leading soy beverage which has been the subject of the research described above, Haelan 951 vs. Silk soy milk is clearly a superior product.

There is also considerable evidence of greater value in soy beverage products as compared to dry soy products. Soy nutrition is also beneficial to athletes and others who are actively pursuing health and fitness. In fact, fat burning and muscle building occur more efficiently—and the glycemic index is actually improved when soy protein is introduced to the work-out process. As a product that is both a beverage and fermented, Haelan 951 not only provides these nutrients, but they are easily absorbed, assimilated and metabolized.

You can read lots of other stories about how Haelan 951 has helped both people and animals on Haelan 951's facebook page:

www.ThrivingHealthAndWellness.com

Mama Mia loves drinking Haelan 951! She was found on the street, after being hit by a car—with a head injury, a broken leg...and just days from giving birth to seven puppies (some still available—email me if you want a new addition to your family)! She has a very bad heartworm infection in her heart (that was obviously untreated for years prior) and the Haelan—when we have it to share—has contributed to prolonging her life—and her quality of life.

Our Mission and Values

It is our mission to move forward the public understanding of the healthful benefits soy in general, and of Haelan 951 in particular. We hope that these benefits can become more fully understood and communicated in both the research and consumer populations.

Toward that goal, we seek to partner with legitimate clinical investigators interested in further research into the benefits of soy. The high concentration of critical soy properties in Haelan 951 would provide a unique opportunity to see at the clinical level those effects that have been documented by others and which have been reported to us as anecdotal data and case studies. We urge potential partners to contact us to explore the sharing of resources and expertise.

Our values are directed toward helping our clients and customers live a healthy, nutritious lifestyle. The benefits of soy are well known, and the benefits of high quality soy are even greater. We hope to expand the public's information regarding this important product, and to do so through transparency, information and education.

This is what a beautiful, life-saving soy flower looks like.

To Order from the an official company distributor call Adrea Brier at 415-308-4818, www.ThrivingHealthAndWellness.com

Note: Each case is different—whether it be an animal or a person, it helps to call and discuss the dose for what type of animal or if for a person; what is the illness or reason for needing Haelan; and the weight and age.

Then, the people at Haelan can tell you what dose and frequency they specifically recommend and how to increase the dose to get up to the full dose per day, etc. They are like the Encyclopedia of Haelan 951, right at your fingertips!

Just a note about Insurance: Haelan 951 can be used to treat “Protein Calorie Malnutrition.” Insurance requests for reimbursement should clearly indicate this product was prescribed (you need a prescription for coverage) for this condition and/or nutritional support—for example, for conditions like: (in all three stages of each/preparatory, during or post) chemotherapy, radiation and or surgery, just to name a few. Submit it to your insurance for coverage and if need be, “fight” for your life for coverage. Remember, when you need this product, timing is usually critical, so don't let a lot of time go by.

(Note: No returns after sixty days from date of invoice unless authorized by the office.)

Today...less than one year later:

This was taken less than nine months after we finished the external treatments. Kasey was left with a flat, bald spot of normal skin—and NO MORE TUMOR!

Before that, the last of the scabs were healing the bald spot under his fur—but there wasn't a hint of that giant mass anymore. His fur did turn red-ish for a few months from the poultice but that, too, eventually went away. Today, I have to really look in-between his curls to find the bald spot—you would never know what Kasey went through unless you saw these photos.

After all of his e-collar time in bandages, Kasey is now back in his favorite spot!

Last week, Kasey was out with Monroe (a Rat Terrier we rescued), running through the Rescue Ranch just chasing sparrows through the rose bushes and Bottle Brush Trees.

www.ThrivingHealthAndWellness.com

Please note: This is the only official website for Haelan Products, Incorporated. Other websites using the Haelan name are not owned by us, nor are we responsible for claims that they make.

If there are any questions regarding our affiliations with other websites or organizations, or regarding claims made related to our product Haelan 951, please contact us at Adrea@ThrivingHealthAndWellness.com. We guarantee a prompt response.

My VIP PS: Some people or animals love drinking Haelan all by itself. Some really don't. Taste a tiny bit first—and decide whether you like it or need to add Stevia (natural sweetener). You can also make a 50/50 water to Haelan mix and drink it with a straw! Cooling it down (keeping it in the frig) ahead of time helps, too! (Warm Haelan isn't my first choice—plus it has to be kept cold once it is opened.) If you need more ideas, just call Haelan!

We have just one bottle of our precious Haelan left at the Rescue Ranch and a great need for sponsors to help with the other animals, too. Kasey probably will stay on it every day for the rest of his life and three or four other dogs here really need it, too.

IF you can sponsor a bottle or even part of a bottle, please contact Adrea Brier. 77002. All help is much appreciated. (Joe keeps reminding me that I, too, need to continue taking it—but saving the animal's lives is so important to me when our product stock is so limited.)

Poppy is one of the animals who needs to be on Haelan regularly—orally and topically—to dissolve this mass on his chest. He is eight and such a love. We're leaving his healing/Haelan in God's hands—after all, they are bigger than mine! I'll chronicle his progress, too, and hopefully in another year, we'll have another great success story!

Thank you kindly!

